

Fourth grade students at Evarts Elementary performed a "Live Wax Museum" recently at the school. The students researched historical figures and then portrayed their selection in the gymnasium as if they were in a wax museum. They performed speeches and prepared displays for their character. Students, parents and others visited the various stations to learn more about the characters the students were portraying.

